

That were his Lackies: I cried hum, and well, go to,
But markt him not a word; O, he is as tedious
As a tyred Horfe, a rayling Wife,
Worse then a smokie House. I had rather liue
With Cheefe and Garlike in a Windmill farre,
Then feed on cates, and haue him talke to me,
In any Summer-house in Christendome.

Mor. In faith he was a worthy Gentleman,
Exceeding well read and profited
In strange concealements, valiant as a Lion,
And wondrous affable, and as bountifull
As Mines of India: shall I tell you, Coosen,
He holds your temper in a high respect,
And curbs himselfe, even of his naturall scope,
When you come crosse his humor, faith he does:
I warrant you, that man is not aliue.
Might so haue tempted him, as you haue done,
Without the tast of danger and reproofe:
But doe not vse it oft, let me intreat you.

Wor. In faith, my Lord, you are too wilfull blame,
And since your comming hither, haue done enough
To put him quite besides his patience:
You must needs learne, Lord, to amend this fault,
Though sometimes it shew greatnesse, courage, blood,
And thats the dearest grace it renders you:
Yet oftentimes it doth present harsh rage,
Defect of manners, want of gouernement,
Pride, hautinesse, opinion, and disdain;
The least of which haunting a Nobleman,
Loseth mens hearts, and leaues behind a stain:
Vpon the beautie of all parts besides,
Beguiling them of commendation.

Hot. Well, I am schoold, Good-manners be your speed,
Heere come our wiues, and let vs take our leaues.

Enter Glendower, with the Ladies.

Mor. This is the deadly spight that angers me,
My Wife can speake no English, I no Welsh.

Glen. My Daughter weepes, sheele not part with you,
Shee

Sheele be a souldier too, sheele to the warres.

Mor. Good father tell her, that she, and my Shall follow in your conduct speedily.

Glendower speakes to her in welsh, and she answers him in the same.

Glen. She is desperat heere,
A peeuish selfe-wil'd harlotry, one that no perswa good vpon.

The Lady speakes in Welsh.

Mor. I vnderstand thy lookes, that pretty wel
Which thou powrest downe from these swelling
I am too perfect in, and but for shame
In such a parley should I answer thee.

The Lady againe in Welsh.

Mor. I vnderstand thy kisses, and thou mine
And thats a feeling disputation:
But I will neuer be a truant loue,
Till I haue learn'd thy language, for thy tongue
Makes Welsh as sweets as ditties highly pend,
Sung by a faire Queene in a Summers bowre,
With rauishing diuision to her lute.

Glen. Nay, if thou melt, then will she runne ma

The Lady speakes againe in Welsh.

Mor. O, I am ignorance it selfe in this.

Glen. She bids you on the wanton rushes lay y
And rest your gentle head vpon her lap,
And she will sing the song that pleaseth you,
And on your eyelids crowne the God of sleepe,
Charming your blood with pleasing heauinesse,
Making such difference betwixt wake and sleepe,
As is the difference betwixt day and night,
The houre before the heauenly haruest teeme
Begins his golden progresse in the East.

Mor. With all my heart Ile sit and heare her s
By that time will our booke I thinke be drawne.

Glen. Do so, and those Multitions that shall play
Hang in the ayre a thousand Leagues from thenc
And straight they shall be here, sit and attent.
